04 August 2022

Our CEO, Christine Fruechte, has long believed that the best way to predict the future is to create it. This has become our mantra as we strive to make the future more equitable for all.

At Colle McVoy/Exponent, we believe our DEIB (diversity, equity, inclusion and belonging) efforts are not only the right thing to do but they're also imperative for creating innovative and culture-shifting work that benefits all people, communities, commerce and the planet. That's why our efforts affect every part of the agency to ensure equitable practices, talent retention, vendor selection, work that reflects the world we live in and partnerships with clients who share our values. And while attracting talent who brings diverse ideas, perspectives and backgrounds is essential, ensuring they feel welcomed and valued and are given opportunities to grow and advance is just as important. We remain committed to improvement, accountability and transparency while on this journey for change. Here's a mid-year update on our progress.
